

Master in Aviation Management

1. About the program

The Master of Aviation Management program is the first specialized program of its kind in the Middle East, whether in the field of aviation management or at the postgraduate level, which was launched in 2015 at the Faculty of Tourism and Hotel Management, Helwan University.

2. Program objectives

- Preparing qualified graduates that are able to compete in the aviation administrative labor market locally, regionally and internationally
- To develop the ability of the participants from airlines, civil aviation authorities, and airports to operate effectively and manage the drastic changes economically and politically, and to overcome obstacles and crises at work.
- Providing the students with the necessary knowledge and academic experience to develop their abilities.

3. Acquired skills

- Providing the students with the concepts of international management, which qualify them to become competent managers at the international level.
- Developing the capabilities of students working in airlines, airports, and civil aviation authorities to work more efficiently, enabling them to face the rapid international changes in the aviation sector at all levels.
- Providing and reviewing practical experiences in addition to the academic dimension in the field of aviation management in one specialized program.

4. Program Advantages

- The program qualifies graduates to work in the field of aviation management at airports and airline companies.
- The program provides the student with all specialized subjects in the field of aviation in the English language.
- Providing an opportunity of admission to the doctoral level in the same specialty through the Doctorate of Aviation Management Program that is available in the Faculty of Tourism and Hotel Management, Helwan University.
- An elite group of professors and experts in the field of the aviation industry teach the students.
- Air-conditioned classrooms equipped with modern technological facilities.
- Facilitated conditions for international students.

5 . Admission requirements

- The applicant must hold a university degree from a recognized university.
- Previous experience in the field of aviation, whether civil or military, tourism industry, or related business, is a must.
- Passing the TOEFL English language test with a score of no less than 450, or equivalent on other international tests.

6 . Duration of study

- The duration of study is 24 months, during which the study is divided into three parts: Each part includes two modules.
- Each module is presented in the block seminar system in a period ranging from 12 - 18 days. Each course is taught for three days, 6 hours daily.
- The program consists of 65 credit hours.

7. Degree requirements

The student must successfully pass the study modules.

8. Study requirements

- The program consists of mandatory and elective courses.
- Upon completion of studying each module, the student obtains a certain number of credit hours. For one module, the number of student work hours is calculated from 1,500 to 1,800 hours. Therefore, the credit hour is equivalent to 25 to 30 student work hours.
- The study of each module is completed after its examination, or its study requirements.

9. How to apply for the program

- Submit the required documents at the Faculty of Tourism and Hotel Management after applying online through <http://pgs.helwan.edu.eg/>
- For international students, apply online through study in Egypt platform.

10. Other data

Contact person:

Dr. Haidy Elsaid

Master of Aviation Management Program Coordinator

mam.hu@outlook.com